Course Summary

Course Description	This course will teach the students the different sections of the OPIc examination. It will spend the first half of each class looking at different mechanics of producing speech including individual letters, syllables, words, chunks, and sentences. Class time will be spent developing a strategy for the background survey, as well as the types of questions that might be generated from given answers. The class will then explore how to respond to the role playing section of the test necessary to reach the level that will attract employers. The things that will be looked at include format of each section of the test, the grading criteria, and hints for each section, classroom practice, methods of self-monitoring, vocabulary building, and test taking grammar. Through this class students should be able to improve their speaking as well as their test taking skills with the OPIc.
